ANNUAL CIRCULAR.

1867-8.

By reference to the list of our Board of Trustees it will be seen that the name of Col. JOHN O'FALLON no longer appears at its head. We are pained to announce the decease of this truly public-spirited man; but a long career of usefulness and good and noble acts, as it endeared him to the earlier history of St. Louis, so will it ever keep his memory green in the hearts of thousands who come after.

This Institution deplores his loss, for he was associated with it throughout nearly its existence. It can never be forgotten how often he has extended his helping hand, and so long as it may exist the name of Col. JOHN O'FALLON will be held in respect and gratitude by its Faculty. The world goes on, even if the good man be removed, but his deeds are left behind to become incorporated in the future, and make a rule of action which all time can not overturn.

The twenty-sixth regular term of Lectures in the St. Louis Medical College will commence on Tuesday, October 1st, 1867, and continue until the following March.

The Faculty takes pleasure in announcing the continued prosperity of this Institution, and would embrace this opportunity of presenting to the medical profession its thanks for the continued interest and support which have been manifested towards it. The last class was fully represented by students from every Western State.

The success of the College, hitherto, may be attributed to its thorough didactic and demonstrative teaching, and to the ample means of instruction always at its command for spring and summer clinical studies. These facilities for bedside instruction are constantly increasing, and are superior to those of any city in the West, and it will be the aim of the Faculty to make them paramount in importance in the instruction of the student. Too much stress can not be laid on this subject of clinical teaching, even for the junior student, and the Faculty, through its several Professors connected with the different hospitals, will most willingly use all efforts to elevate in this direction the standard of medical education.

The Hospitals of the city are as well appointed as any in the country, and their size, giving accommodation to thousands of patients annually, will afford to the student daily instruction on every subject connected with medicine and surgery. The City Hospital, a noble monument of the beneficence of the authorities of St. Louis, is most eligibly situated. It is at present easily accessible by the street cars, which run directly past the entrance gate. During the year ending June 1st, 1867, there were admitted into the wards about three thousand patients, suffering from almost every variety of medical and surgical disease. Prof. John T. Hodgcn presides over the Surgical Clinic, and daily instructions may be received throughout the year. The St. Louis or Sisters' Hospital affords, in like manner, great advantages for clinical study. From four to five thousand patients are annually treated. The clinic of Prof. E. H. Gregory, and also of Prof. C. A. Pope, can not be surpassed in the variety and importance of the cases which come before them. In this connection may be mentioned the Eye and Ear Clinic, under the immediate charge of Prof. Pope and Dr. Pollak, where five hundred and thirteen patients were treated during the last year, either by prescription or operation; the average daily number of cases being about thirty. Many other institutions of a similar kind are within the control of the Faculty, and though smaller, yet afford frequent opportunities for the practical study of medicine. All these clinical opportunities are free of charge, and open, with certain restrictions, at all times. Preliminary lectures at the College building, and at the Hospitals, will be given during the month of September, on various subjects; these, however, do not form a part of the regular course, though students are recommended to attend them. It is highly desirable that the class should be present at the opening of the session, in order to derive as much benefit as possible from the lectures.

PRACTICAL ANATOMY.

Anatomical material is abundant, and the subjects are so prepared that the study of practical anatomy can be pursued not only during the session, but throughout the year. The dissecting rooms are large, well ventilated and lighted, and supplied with every convenience. This study is considered so important as not to be left to the option of the student, but is insisted on throughout the course, for junior as well as senior students.

TEXT BOOKS.

Anatomy.—Wilson, Quain & Sharpey, Homer, Gray.

Chemistry.—Fownes, Regnault, Graham, Bridge.

Physiology.—Todd & Bowman, Carpenter, Draper, Dalton, Kirk and Paget.

Materia Medica.—U. S. Dispensatory, Pereira, Christison, Wood.

Midwifery.—Churchill, Bedford, Cazeaux, Ramsbotham Hodge.

Theory and Practice.—Linton, Watson, Aitken, Flint.

Pathological Anatomy.—Rokitansky, Virchow, Paget.

Surgery.—Erichsen, Miller, Gross, Chelius, Fergusson, Hamilton.

Medical Jurisprudence.—Taylor, Beck, Elwell.

FEEES.

Fees for the whole course.....	$ 105 00
Matriculation Fee (paid but once).....	5 00
Demonstrator's Ticket.....	10 00
Graduation Fee.....	20 00
Hospital Tickets, gratuitous.
Analytic Chemistry, extra.

The fees must be paid promptly at the beginning of the session. The matriculation ticket must be taken out before any other ticket can be obtained. Remission or reduction of fees, or taking promissory notes from students, is contrary to the regulations of the College. Students may take out tickets for such departments of instruction only as they may desire to attend. Students will be expected to exhibit their tickets to the Curator after the first two weeks of the session. All tickets may be obtained from the Dean. Graduates of other respectable medical schools are admitted to the Lectures on the payment of the matriculation fee. Graduates of this institution have perpetual free admission. Students who have attended two full courses of Lectures in other accredited medical schools will receive all the tickets to the Lectures of this College for seventy-five dollars exclusive, of the matriculation fee.

REQUISITES FOR THE DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF MEDICINE.

1. That the candidate be twenty one years of age, of good moral character, and have been engaged in the study of Medicine for three years (course of lectures included).

2. That he shall have attended two full courses of Lectures in this institution. Attendance on a regular course in some respectable and generally accredited medical school, or four years of reputable practice, will, however, be considered as equivalent to one of the courses above specified. The Dissecting Ticket must also have been taken continuously in this or some other school. He must also have followed the practice of a hospital.

3. That he shall undergo a satisfactory examination on all the branches taught in this College, and write an acceptable thesis, in the English, Latin, French, or German language, on some subject connected with medicine.

4. That he, by the first of February, notify the Dean, in writing, of his intention to become a candidate, and deliver to him his thesis and graduating fee; both of which will be returned in case of withdrawal or rejection.

The requirements for an ad eundem degree in this College are: A diploma from an accredited medical school; satisfactory testimonials with respect to character and professional standing from regular physicians, and a satisfactory examination in the practical branches of medicine, surgery and obstetrics. Candidates for an ad eundem degree are expected to matriculate, and to pay the graduation fee of twenty dollars.

Boarding, including lights and fuel, can be obtained as usual, in respectable private families, at convenient distances from the College, at as reasonable rates as in other large cities. Students, on their arrival in the city, are requested to report at once to the Curator, at the College, north-east corner of Seventh and Myrtle streets, who will assist them in obtaining board without delay. Letters addressed to any member of the Faculty will receive prompt attention. Alumni of the College, and other medical practitioners, who may desire to receive the Annual Announcement regularly, are respectfully requested to send their names and addresses to the Dean. Any change of residence is also desired. All further information may be obtained by addressing the Dean, or calling at his office, in the College building, northeast corner of Seventh and Myrtle streets.
